It was really learning while having fun! Blythe managed to deliver her message in a simple way and was always putting us in situations so there was a time for the theory and a time to apply this to real life events. I am really grateful to have been part of this training and I will use what I have learned for the best! A massive thank you to Blythe!

Program Objective → Ask us about customisation

Riots are happening everyday in modern business. There are individual employees, groups, even leadership teams who are rioting, right under our noses, without us often even realising it. More often than not, they are not rioting in the traditional sense of a violent upheaval or stop work strike. The riots that are happening in our modern working world are often subtle and covert yet exceptionally powerful in terms of the impact on the overall working environment, brand and business performance.

IN THIS PROGRAM, YOU WILL LEARN:

- The five key questions every employee needs answered.
- Why Culture does not always eat Strategy for breakfast.
- How strong leadership makes or breaks the level of connection within your team.
- Three key strategies to becoming a 'brain-friendly' leader in today's agile environment.
